COMPETITION INFORMATION

8. Rules and equipment

The tournament is planned to follow current World Taekwondo competition rules for the relevant events, subject to technical approval and any published event-specific adaptations. The final applicable rules will be communicated in the event regulations.

Olympic-style competition format

Kyorugi will use an Olympic-style elimination bracket: athletes compete in paired bouts and winners advance toward the final. Poomsae placings are decided by performance scores, not an elimination bracket. The event regulations will confirm the draw, any byes or repechage for bronze, medal bouts and applicable technical rules. This format does not imply Olympic or federation sanction.

- A taekwondo uniform (dobok) is required for competition.
- For Kyorugi, athletes should be prepared with the protective equipment required by the final rules and event regulations, including approved head, mouth, trunk, forearm and shin protection, plus other required protective items.
- Coaches and athletes must follow instructions from referees, technical officials and event staff.
- Final equipment approval, electronic scoring requirements and Poomsae requirements will be published before the event.

9. Awards

The awards and cash prizes are listed in the prize schedule at the end of this bulletin. Cash amounts are in Kenyan shillings (KSh); age eligibility and final award arrangements remain subject to the event regulations.

10. Protests and appeals

The authorised person, submission process, time limit and any protest fee will be stated in the event regulations. Coaches and team representatives should raise competition matters promptly through the appointed technical officials.

11. Medical, insurance and responsibility

Participation involves the ordinary risks of combat sport. Athletes should only compete when medically fit, and clubs or guardians should ensure suitable medical and accident insurance. Emergency response arrangements and participant terms will be communicated with the final event information.

The event organiser will publish applicable participation terms before athlete entries are finalised. Nothing in this bulletin replaces those terms or a participant’s own insurance arrangements.

12. Changes and notices

Event information may be updated as operational and technical arrangements are confirmed. The latest event regulations and notices published by Charles Michael Sports Hub will govern entry and participation. Any KTF or World Taekwondo sanction or endorsement will only be represented if formally confirmed.

> Keep informed: Check the event page or contact Charles Michael Sports Hub for registration announcements and updates to the provisional schedule.
